What's In A Word

On Saturday 6th May we will witness the first Coronation of a Monarch for 70 years, and from what we hear, it will be a very different occasion from that of Queen Elizabeth's. The route to Westminster Abbey will be far shorter this time, I suspect mostly for security reasons for 70 years ago we didn't have the same threats from either terrorists or activists wanting to disrupt events. Pray for the security services who have a huge responsibility, for many world leaders will be gathered together in London that day.

We are also led to believe that the service itself will be different. The guest list will only be 2,000 as compared with 8,000 for our late Queen. The British aristocracy has been culled in the invites with many community champions taking their place. In some ways one can understand the reduction in numbers, for I would far sooner watch the service in comfort on a TV than be stuck behind a pillar at the back of Westminster Abbey. The Queen's Coronation was the first time such proceedings were televised, so they didn't really know how it would work. We do now. I would be saddened if we lost too much colour and pageantry as that is one thing that the British excel at, and it brings in tourists galore. Apparently we can look forward to the Parades before and after. The Bands were magnificent at the Queen's Funeral, so a treat is in store.

The Big question is, will King Charles promise to be the Defender of The Faith, or Defender of Faith? At the moment there is much discussion with the Church about the content of the service. Does it matter - it's just a word? Well actually it makes a huge difference.

Firstly the title was initially bestowed by Pope Leo X on King Henry VIII in recognition of a book he had written about the Seven Sacraments of the Church which defended the Sacraments and the Supremacy of the Pope. When Henry fell out with the Pope over his marriages and the Church of England came into being Pope Paul III revoked the title. Parliament then stepped in with a Bill granting King Henry the same title, but this time referring to the Anglican Faith. Titles are granted by other bodies and not simply labels we claim for ourselves, so unless some world wide body of religions has granted a new title, I believe the King should stay with Tradition.

Secondly, what do we mean by Faith? The Faith clearly refers to the Christian Faith, but “Faith” is open ended for anyone who believes anything. Will our King really want to defend them all? ISIS fanatics claim they they are doing things for their Faith, but most of us would disagree with them. Satanists have Faith, and they may even believe in God but have chosen not to follow him. There are various strange cults in different religions, or religious extremists. Will he want to defend their rights too?

Our King has a kind and generous heart and wants to be open and welcoming to others, and that is to be applauded, but I would suggest that it is a Christian perspective and an Anglican one in particular that enables this generosity. I cannot see it at all likely that Christians would ever be asked to do similar in Islamic Countries where Non Muslims are usually classed as second class citizens. In India Christians usually belong to the Dalit/ Untouchable community at the bottom of Society, and in Buddhist Countries like Burma, even the Buddhist people don’t always have equal rights. If our Tolerance tolerates too much Intolerance, then it won’t be long before our tolerant society isn’t tolerated any more. In short, I hope King Charles remains Defender of The Faith.

Our prayers are with him as Coronation Day approaches. We will be having a Special Non Eucharistic Coronation Sunday Service on Sunday 7th May at 9.15am followed by cake, wine and the Loyal Toast. Please come dressed in Red, White and Blue.

For those who like a later start, we shall be having a similar service at Saint Oswald’s at Newton under Roseberry starting at 11am.

God Save The King!

Paul

Archdeacon’s Visitation

This summer, our Archdeacon, Venerable Amanda Bloor, will be carrying out a Visitation to all the Churches in our Deanery. This is to ensure that Churches are keeping to proper procedures - particularly with faculties, looking after the buildings and contents properly by checking the Terrier and Inventory, and checking on the proceedings of the PCCs.

The Diocese are also launching a Safeguarding Audit of every Parish this month. These are to check we are all all doing things properly.

Jane's Moving On

We were delighted be able to announce on Sunday 23rd April that our Curate, Revd Jane Robson, has been appointed to be the Priest in Charge of Kirkleatham Parish in Redcar and will be Licensed at Saint Hilda's Church on Sunday 16th July.

We are delighted for Jane that she has been given this appointment and wish her well. We have very much enjoyed her being part of the team here during the last 3 years, and have very much appreciated her cheerfulness and warm personality, together with her strong faith. She has much to give in her new Parish.

Kirkleatham Parish is part of Redcar and takes its name from Kirkleatham Village, a small village where Sir William Turner's School first started up - now a Museum. It also has the Owl Sanctuary and the Sir William Turners Almshouses with a beautiful chapel. If you are visiting there, and its well worth the trip, then don't forget the Church of Saint Cuthbert with its adjoining Mausoleum to the Turner family. Alec Wright, a famous water colour artist from many years ago used to call it "The Cathedral in the Woods".

The Parish also takes in everything above Corporation Road between West Dyke Road and Kirkleatham Lane. It's a big Parish. In the Lakes Estate the other Church of Saint Hilda's is based at the corner of Mersey Road and Roseberry Road. This Church is very modern having just been rebuilt a few years ago. So Jane will have Ancient and Modern, Traditional Charm and Modern settings with technology combined, and two wonderful Northern Saints as her Patrons.

They are lovely folk at Kirkleatham Parish and I am sure they will give Jane a warm welcome. She will remain here until her last Sunday of 25th June.

Well done Jane. We are all very happy for you, but will miss you.

Looking Back... With Malcolm Race

When the Rev. Robert Kettlewell, then Vicar of Great Ayton, wrote his book, "Cleveland Village" J. Falrfax-Blakeborough added an intriguing chapter on village lore. Here are a few extracts.

"Ayton possessed a team of plough stots, young men who, taking the place of oxen - 'star denotes a young ox - and drawing the plough in procession on Plough Monday, the first Monday after Twelfth Day, the Feast of the Epiphany, were accompanied by sword dancers and a band of musicians and collected money for the feasting which was to follow and which marked the close of the Christmas holiday.

The Low Green, too, had its Maypole, painted and crowned and hung with coloured ribbons for use in the May dances which took place beneath and around the Maypole and were part of the yearly May Day sports. The youth of the Village prided themselves on athletics and skill at outdoor games... Footraces were until recent times an integral part of all Ayton weddings....

"I have spoken of 'natives' of Ayton. Until comparatively recent times those who were not born in the Village were looked upon as 'foreigners' even after many years' residence and, indeed, often described as such.

'This may have been at the root of the marked antagonism which once existed between those living at 'high end O'toon' and those of 'low end'. Aytonians, by the way, invariably speak of their village as 't'toon' and it may be that the spread of the parish California-way caused this marked division.

'Those at the low end' considered themselves 'Yattoners' proper and looked upon the inhabitants beyond the High Green as interlopers. There was a similar jealousy or antipathy to Stokesleyites.

"As in most villages, this strong local patriotism made not only for pride of place but also for an abiding conservatism. Any departure from custom or the well-beaten track was met with strenuous opposition. I have often heard that this was the case when the old church was supplanted, some parishioners finding themselves unable to transfer their affections to the new building."

Marwood School will be doing the Maypole on High Green, Friday 26th May at 1.30pm

Thy Kingdom Come – May 18th to 28th

In the period between Ascension Day to Pentecost we are asked to make a special effort in prayer for God's Kingdom to come on earth as it is in heaven.

As he ascended, Jesus promised the gift of the Holy Spirit to enable the disciples to be witnesses. Just as those first followers waited for the promise to be fulfilled by constantly devoting themselves to prayer (Acts 1:11) so the renewed call across all denominations of the global Christian church is to set these days apart to pray.

Since 2016 God has grown TKC from a dream to a reality uniting Christians across the world. It is our hope & prayer that those who have not yet heard the Good News of Jesus Christ will hear it for themselves and respond and follow him.

Daily Prayers in All Saints Church

When All Saints Church was first built (then dedicated to Saint Mary the Virgin) all Christians in Great Ayton worshipped together as one as this was before any denominations. We are therefore holding our Thy Kingdom Come Prayer events in All Saints Church on Low Green, with members of all the village Churches taking part. Each Day will feature:

8:45 am Prayer for the Day (15 minutes) Join us in Person
also on Zoom & Facebook

Zoom ID: 895 1102 4740 Password: 450872

12.00 Midday Prayers with Music (20 to 30 minutes)

All times of prayer will include the Lord's Prayer and Thy Kingdom Come Prayer.

Thy Kingdom Come Prayer

Almighty God,
your ascended Son has sent us into the world to preach the good news of your kingdom:
inspire us with your Spirit and fill our hearts with the fire of your love, that all who hear your Word may be drawn to you, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

The season will begin on Ascension Day, Thursday 18th May at 8am with Holy Communion in Christ Church followed by a fellowship breakfast afterwards at the Velveteen Rabbit (Please can you let Rev Pev know you are joining us for this beforehand, either by email or signing the list in Christ Church, so that we can let Ian know at the Rabbit) and will close on Sunday 28th with a service in St Margaret's.

Most importantly, PRAY by name for 5 of your family and friends that they may come to know Jesus.

Bookmarks and Daily Prayer booklets are available in all the village churches. Check your local church news sites for further details or contact Geoff or Jane.

Thy Kingdom Come 2023 Prayer Walk

We will be walking and praying around the village on Saturday 20th May.
Please join us for all or part of the journey.

11:50	St. Margaret's Church	Prayer for businesses in Great Ayton
12:00	All Saints	Midday Prayers with Music

Stay and join us for a picnic at All Saints after Midday Prayers if you can

Thy Kingdom Come Prayer Ribbons

We will ask the churches to bless the ribbons at their services on the 14th of May and they can be put on the railings from then until Sunday 28th of May. They will also be part of Thy Kingdom Come, the global prayer initiative. We invite you to tie a ribbon on Suggitts railings which are available from all the churches, Suggitts, The Discovery Centre and Thompsons.

In tying a ribbon we pray together, to remember a loved one or for a situation at home or abroad.

Something For All

An evening with Two very different One Act Plays from Great Ayton Dramatic Society

The Attic by Robert Scott A ghost story

"Demi began sorting out the attic, but she's become obsessed with a letter she's found. Is it a suicide note? A confession? What's her connection with the woman from the past?"

Flushed by Ron Nicol - A comedy

"It's a singles night, and Jan and Meg are taking a break in the Ladies Room. Jan is criticising Tara, unaware that Tara is hiding in one of the toilet cubicles. When Tara's presence is revealed a fight ensues and Jan confesses the reason for her jealousy.

Then Meg discovers that the door to the room seems to be locked, and the succeeding series of mishaps and misfortunes ruins Jan's appearance and assurance. Tara eventually manages to open the door, but on the threshold of escape they find that Meg is trapped in one of the cubicles."

There will be a mixture of theatre and café style seating available at each performance, so bring something to nibble and bottle of your preferred tittle and sit back, relax and enjoy.

Church Hall Recycling

Since the pandemic, the hiring out of the church hall for any variety of functions has grown, almost exponentially. Perhaps that's to be expected, but in case many thanks to all of you who make use of the hall, that's what it's there for after all! Where we let ourselves down is in recycling our waste products, we haven't seen any like the same growth in our recycling rates. Please do try and make use of the following recycling facilities we offer.

Blue top wheelie bin outside the back door in the link passage As residents of Great Ayton will already know it's for plastic bottles, drinks cans, card board and paper. NO waste contaminated with food please.

Blue boxes x 2, by the wheelie bin above (These are a new addition to our recycling efforts) All empty glass bottles and jars

Should you be organising a function or even be present at one, please do make use of the recycling facilities we have, thank you. If you have far more than we can take, you may even consider taking them to be recycled yourself.

EASTER DAY 2022

It was great to see so many in the Choir for Easter Day, as family and former choristers were welcomed back. The singing was terrific and really added to our celebrations. It was great to see worshippers back in greater numbers this year in both Churches, and to see them decorated so beautifully.

The King Honours Frances with a BEM

In the New Year's Honours List, well known Great Ayton resident, Francis Greenwell was awarded the British Empire Medal for services to the Community.

She was presented her BEM by Jo Ropner, the Lord-Lieutenant of North Yorkshire at a ceremony where she was accompanied by husband Peter and their children Simon and Tessa.

Lord Lieutenant Jo Ropner presenting Frances with her BEM

I first met Frances after arriving in Great Ayton in 1993 as a Governor of Marwood School, and then discovered she was also the Parish Clerk. Throughout my time here Frances has been present at all village occasions from Fetes to Remembrance Sunday. She resigned as Clerk and then served as a Parish Councillor and also a Hambleton District Councillor for many years.

She had other interests too, both with Cleveland Mountain Rescue and the Captain Cook Schoolroom Museum. Frances has never been out for glory. If you want to see what Frances does, look for the person quietly doing their bit behind the scenes and never wanting any fuss. I did have a lovely photo of Frances helping set out the Vicarage Garden for Marwood School Sports day. She would be outdoors helping with gazebos, bunting and chairs. Alas, I couldn't find it. Nevermind, for we have even better ones.

Frances has always been a do-er rather than a talker and thoroughly reliable. That is why her being in the King's New Year's Honours was so fitting. It is good to see that the quiet, faithful worker who helps make community events happen, gets noticed. Congratulations Frances, on a very well deserved BEM.

Frances and her very proud family

Leven Art Society's Spring Exhibition 2023

Leven Art Society, based in Stokesley, North Yorkshire returned to 'normality' in 2022, holding their first Spring Exhibition since the covid pandemic. The Society will hold their 2023 exhibition in Stokesley Town Hall, from Friday 12th May to Sunday 14th May inclusive, opening hours will be from 10am to 6pm on Friday and Saturday and from 10am to 3pm on Sunday. Importantly, entrance to the exhibition will be FREE.

Typically around 170 paintings will be hung for the main exhibition, most will be for sale. There will also be around 100 unframed pictures presented for sale. A preview, with entry by invitation, will take place on the Thursday evening prior to the public opening.

All visitors will have an opportunity to vote for their 'best in show' exhibit and these votes will determine the prestigious 'Sheila Hegg's' trophy. Twelve paintings, selected by an independent expert, will be used for Leven Art Society's 2024 Annual Calendar. Local artists will demonstrate their skills during the exhibition and art work will be raffled. Raffle proceeds donated to local charity 'Tees Valley Arts' which uses the arts to give employment and experience to local young people.

This year's exhibition should be exciting! We have lots of new, enthusiastic members. All our members are focused on improving their art and we aim to ensure that our original works contain a certain 'je ne sais quoi' which mass produced art simply cannot achieve. There should be some really stimulating exhibits!

A Plea for Peace

Another war started, people flee for their lives,
Men left to fight, leaving children and wives.
Happy in their homes with families to care
Till just one man wanted more than his share.

Now there's just rubble where homes used to be,
Where children played games, happy and free.
But not any more because of one man's greed
To cause this destruction when there's really no need.

To see the fear in those mothers' eyes.
Listen to the children and hear their cries.
Where husbands, fathers, brother and sons
Are now saving their country by carrying guns!

Now other countries helping where they can
Giving their homes to save their fellow man.
Food and clothes keep the cold out under ground
The noise of bombs are their only sound.

So we pray it's soon over as they count up the cost
Of needless lives that now have been lost.
Men, women and children whose lives are no more!
So please, Mr. Putin, what is this war for?

The above poem was handed to me by Jan Thompson at the Memorial Service. I think it's her own, and worthy of a wider audience. PS There are 2 Jan Thompsons in the Village

Memorial Service

Every six months we host a Memorial Service for the Recently Departed. On 16th April around 100 people gathered to remember 33 people, most of whom had died since last November.

The service allows us to say things hopefully helpful, and to pray for our loved ones. There are lots of tears as their names and photos appear on the screen. Our thanks to Michael Rea & Team who join us for this moving service.

A Song From Eric

If you are low in spirit,
and don't know where to go,
Then make your way to Ayton,
where the Leven waters flow.
See the waterfall so crystal,
see the weeping willows drape,
See the plumage so unusual of the vibrant mallard drake.

If your stamina is steady,
then why not take a stroll,
And amble down the walkways,
see the beauty all unfold.
Through meadowland and woodland,
to the ridge of Roseberry,
The vista from this vantage point will bring you ecstasy.

But we must all remember,
our most distinguished son,
His early education,
was a basic job well done;
James Cook by name and seeking fame,
to sea he was to go,
His history is legend,
and the story we all know. ^

Now Easby Hill and monument,
are popular it's true,
It's worth the climb if only,
to marvel at the view.
So many jaunts, so much to do,
so try and find a way,
To get yourself to CANNY ATON,
have a great, great day.

Eric Ancell, our former village newsagent who died in January, loved a song and was a member of the Wilton Male Voice Choir for many years.

He wrote this song about Great Ayton to the tune of The Yellow Rose of Texas. Have a try singing it. It works well.

Thank you Eric

A visitor to the remote Scottish Highlands was discussing the midge problem with a local who offered the advice to rub brown sugar all over your face "Will it stop them biting?" "No, but it rots their teeth."

A writer to a newspaper recalled the occasion when his grandfather took his father to a theatre in Manchester to see Shakespeare's King Richard III. "The audience members in the stalls were known to be rowdy in those days and when King Richard proclaimed: 'A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse,' one wag shouted: 'Will a donkey do?' King Richard turned and replied: 'Yes, come on down.'"
